

Once, a rich man boarded a luxury cruise ship with his wife. The man was extremely stingy and always tried to save money.

During dinner, he noticed that the prices at the ship's restaurant were ridiculously high. So, he told his wife,

Husband: "Why should we spend so much on food? Let's just go back to our cabin and eat bread and cheese."

The wife reluctantly agreed.

The next day, the ship encountered a severe storm, and everyone was asked to get on the lifeboats. The stingy husband quickly jumped into a lifeboat, but his wife was still running toward him.

Husband (shouting): "Hurry up, or the lifeboat will leave without you!"

Wife (panting): "Does it cost anything to get on the lifeboat?"

Husband: "No, it's free!"

Wife: "Then you get off first. I'll take another lifeboat. You always take up too much space when it's free!"

Md Sohanur Rahman Hady

Cadet No. 5897

59(N)-BMA